John, you are out this week and I will be out next week but I wanted to give you an update on the progress we are making on the MDA T investigation. I have attached a revised map that shows the completed borehole locations along with revisions to proposed borehole locations, required by utility interferences. The changes to the proposed borehole locations are indicated on the map by arrows to the revised location, originally proposed locations are shown as a dashed circle. With the revisions we are still getting good coverage of the area. I would like to discuss these with you after the 1st of the year. Overall the investigation is going well, very little positive field screening data. Hope you had a good holiday and I will call early in the New Year.
