Dear Friend,

Maybe you've noticed these eye-catching ads CCNS has run in The Santa Fe Reporter, The Santa Fe New Mexican, The Albuquerque Journal and El Hispano News. Or maybe you don't see these publications on a regular basis. We launched this campaign because the Department of Energy (DOE) is threatening once again to open the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant (WIPP).

WIPP, long plagued by technical and regulatory problems remains dangerous. Worse, DOE misleads the public by promoting WIPP as a cleanup solution. In fact, even if WIPP were to open, 98% of the existing nuclear bomb waste will remain at DOE's badly contaminated sites throughout the nation. As ever, WIPP means new bombs, new waste, and no real cleanup.

It's time to stop this reckless squandering of our "peace dividend." The New Mexico and Texas Attorneys General and a coalition of environmental groups including CCNS have filed suit to prevent DOE from opening WIPP. By law the Attorneys General cannot raise money for these lawsuits. . . but we can. Let's spend a little and save a lot. By stopping WIPP we can redirect an estimated $29 billion from a hole in the ground to real, on-site cleanup.

Donate now and vote for real cleanup.

Sincerely,
Your friends at
Concerned Citizens for Nuclear Safety

I swept 2% of the dirt under the rug.
Is my house clean, now?

Yes, that's the program at WIPP.
Take 2% of the nation's nuclear bomb-waste
and use it to make a new mess.

¡Así es Nuevo Mexico!
Are you here to stay?

Send the nuclear carpetbaggers packing. This land is too sacred to sacrifice.

Still waiting for your
"peace dividend?"

You'll never get it at this rate.
WIPP will hold only 2% of the nation's bomb waste.
But it'll take over $30 billion to get it there.
Help us put a stop to the madness.

WIPP rubber hits the road this summer. Unless we jam on the brakes.

El que calla, otorga.

He who keeps silent consents.

Add your voice to the chorus saying NO
to nuclear contamination

WIPP rubber hits
It's time to read between the lies.
WIPP won't solve our waste backlog.
Not by a long shot.
98% will stay right where it is.
WIPP's all about making new bombs and new waste.
